THE VALUE OF SPORT

As well as the physical benefits, sport at St Luke's Anglican School helps the overall development of students. Playing sports teaches lessons of life, such as teamwork, accountability, self-confidence, responsibility and self-discipline.

Beyond this, participation in sport offers students the opportunity to develop challenging critical thinking skills, decision making strategies and even enhanced moral reasoning.

St Luke's Anglican School understand that sport and physical activity provides a social network for students based upon common interests outside the classroom. It also enables another pathway for the fulfilment of personal potential, and allows young people to take on leadership roles and responsibilities.

Available sports at St Luke's include:

- Athletics
- Basketball
- Cross Country
- e-Sports
- Futsal
- Hockey
- Oztag
- Rugby League
- Surfing
- Swimming
- Tennis
- Triathlon/Aquathon
- AFL
- Cricket
- Equestrian
- Football (Soccer)
- Golf
- Netball
- Rowing
- Rugby Union
- Surf Lifesaving
- Table Tennis
- Touch Football

THE BEST THEY CAN BE ON THE COURT. ON THE FIELD. ON THE WATER.

With a focus on participation and performance, St Luke's Anglican School's Sport Development Programs have been established to assist student athletes to develop their holistic athleticism, no matter what their ability, and to support them in reaching their full potential.

DYNAMIC MOVEMENT PROGRAM

Focusing on the 'learn to train' phase, this program is designed to help students in Years 5 and 6 to develop physical competency through fundamental movement and sports skills.

ATHLETIC DEVELOPMENT PROGRAM

This structured, systematic and routine program is uniquely crafted to ensure each student athlete has the opportunity to achieve success, whilst reducing the risk and severity of injuries.

The program focuses on:

- Physical Testing
- Goal Setting
- Postural Strength
- Strength & Conditioning
- Running Style
- Injury Prevention
- Rehabilitation

STRENGTH & CONDITIONING PROGRAM

Catering for both the non-athlete and athlete, this program enables students to improve their overall fitness and wellbeing. With a special focus on encouraging young female participation, this program aims to instill confidence and ensure exercise enjoyment in a safe, comfortable and social environment.

LOCALS' LOVE FOR LEAGUE

St Luke's Anglican School is thrilled to see the NRL return to Bundaberg for another year!

Rugby League has the power to inspire and unite people, connecting our community through the love of the game and sport in general.

Since last year's NRL game in Bundaberg, the growth of interest in Rugby League within the St Luke's community has been outstanding.

This year St Luke's was able to field three Primary and three Middle/Senior School teams in the local Interschool Rugby League Competition.

The dedication and passion of our coaching staff to nurture a love of sport, has played a significant role in the success of all our sporting teams, particularly our enthusiastic Primary Rugby League Team this year.

Their commitment to each other and love for the game are evident through their achievements in various competitions such as the Interschool Rugby League Competition, the Felise Kaufusi Shield Competition, and their upcoming Grand Final match in the Steve Renouf Cup.

Our Middle and Senior School teams also had a commendable season, making it through to finals contention in two divisions.

A big thank you to the NRL, the Canterbury-Bankstown Bulldogs and The Dolphins for their commitment to the Bundaberg community.

St Luke's is proud to be involved in this exceptional community event and to see the positive impact it has on our students, school and community as a whole.

Welcome by Mr Len Kirchner, Director of Co-Curricular Sport Activities

PASSION FOR SUPPORTING SPORT

By Mikayla Haupt

For Takalvans' Dale Rethamel there's nothing better than watching a live sporting event, particularly a game of NRL at this level.

Takalvans is a match day partner for the Canterbury-Bankstown Bulldogs, who are set to take on the Dolphins in the NRL Round 22 game at Salter Oval this weekend.

Rethamel said he was "incredibly excited" for the match.

"We love getting behind events, particular sporting events as they bring so much benefit to not only the local economy but also benefits the local community," Rethamel said.

"I attend Salter Oval frequently and it's an amazing experience hearing thousands of people cheering for their side at a local venue."

Rethamel attended the NRL match last year when the Bulldogs were up against the Cowboys and said it was quite surreal to be able to watch an NRL points game played here in Bundaberg.

"It was an amazing experience," he said.

'HISTORIC' MATCH

By Mikayla Haupt

The Canterbury-Bankstown Bulldogs are looking forward to returning to the area for what will be another historic match at Salter Oval.

After taking on the Cowboys in Bundaberg last year, for Round 22 of the NRL the Bulldogs are set to face the Dolphins.

Bulldogs CEO Aaron Warburton said the meeting of the two sides will mark a "historical milestone", the first-ever of the two clubs in NRL history and just the second NRL match to be played for points in the Bundaberg region.

"We are two young clubs - the Dolphins in their NRL career and the Bulldogs in our player roster and I am confident this match-up will be the first of some really exciting fixtures to come between our two sides," he said.

"Last year was the first-ever NRL match to be played in Bundaberg and it was a sell-out event. We enjoyed great support for the game and the club and players are really looking forward to returning in 2023. This year we have brought in even more grandstand seats to increase the seating capacity to cater to more local and traveling Bulldogs fans, and we've improved the vantage points so that those who come along can see the match better."

Warburton said they had been working towards this regional fixture all year. He said last year's "sell out spectacular" against the North Queensland Cowboys had certainly left an impression with their staff and players.

"We were overwhelmed by the warm welcome and the support we received from the Bundaberg community, and this year's meeting with the Dolphins promises to bring an even greater event with better views, more family-fun activities and another great game of rugby league for locals to enjoy," he said.

"Bundaberg is a fantastic region and we can't wait to return to the area to promote the great game of rugby league, to encourage tourism to the area and to visit the many wonderful local businesses within the region, such as Kalki Moon Distillery.

DOLPHINS DEDICATED TO 'MEANINGFUL' PRESENCE

While the Dolphins will take the field on Sunday, 30 July at Salter Oval, their commitment to developing the game in the region has well and truly already kicked off.

Dolphins CEO Terry Reader says part of their pitch to the NRL was to take care of the areas between north Brisbane and Rockhampton, and they've been doing exactly that.

Reader said they wanted to make sure they had the game development, talent squads and academy to ensure those areas were being looked after and "certainly not being forgotten about". He said this catchment had been somewhat starved of NRL links, while some of the best players to take the field were coming from these regions.

Having the opportunity to take on the Bulldogs at Salter Oval for Reader, tops off the work and relationship they are building in the region.

He said it was an opportunity they were lucky to have with the Bulldogs having a home game, they were "really pleased" to be their opponents at Salter Oval.

Reader said this game allowed them to go to a place where they've got full-time a staff member and a "meaningful presence".

"Our goal is getting more boys and girls playing the game and being Dolphins fans, and we like to think that the Dolphins CEO Terry Reader said the NRL game at Salter Oval tops off the work they had been doing in the region to develop the game.

Picture: Contributed

presence we've got up there and the resources we're putting into development is helping that," he said.

Reader said they were proud to bring about the first Dolphins Cup to provide Wide Bay and Central Queensland schoolboys an opportunity to play in an elite competition.

"To get that program up and running, and having that run before we were even in the NRL is hopefully keeping more guys and girls based in Bundy, and not thinking they've got to move to Brisbane or even Rocky for that matter to play in elite competitions," he said. "We like to think that's worked, we've got a wonderful relationship with the schools up there and those comps are hopefully making people want to stay and finish schooling up there and making sure they know there's a real pathway and they're being seen."

CANTERBURY-BANKSTOWN BULLDOGS

SMITH EXCITED FOR NRL'S RETURN

The footy is back in Bundy for a second time and we are as excited as ever.

A result of a hard-fought game last year between the Doggies and the Cowboys, Bundaberg has been well and truly put on the rugby league map.

We have often seen regional Queensland towns host NRL Premiership matches and finals in the past, but to see our city stand tall on the national and even international stage last year was an absolute coming of age for our community.

Bundaberg is the sporting capital of the Wide Bay, and our partnership between the NRL, the Canterbury Bulldogs, local Council, and State Government has not only confirmed our status in the region but has made our mark across the whole of the state as well.

This year we welcome the new Dolphins franchise to the Rum City as they take on our NRL partners from Canterbury.

We have seen the grit and determination that the Bennett-led Dolphins have relied on all year, and know that the likes of Burton, Addo-Carr, and Reed Mahoney will be driven as ever to even out their record in Bundy with a win.

Of course, this partnership is more than just on the field.

Our local businesses, our sporting clubs, our community organisations, and charities all benefit from the thrills and excitement that in turn adds to our local economy.

Cheers to another big day of NRL, Bundy style.

BULLDOGS' KING PUTS BEST FOOT FORWARD

By Mikayla Haupt

Max King is set to don the Canterbury-Bankstown Bulldogs jersey at Salter Oval once again, only this time he's taking the field against on the Dolphins.

Having played last year against the Cowboys, King said it was "really good" experience to play at the Bundaberg field.

He said they felt the love from the locals from the moment they got off the flight in Bundaberg.

King said it was obviously a big deal for everyone with them coming to the region and they felt that special occasion.

While securing a win against the Dolphins was their main focus, King said he was he was excited for the boys to experience playing in Bundaberg.

Canterbury-Bankstown Bulldogs' lock Max King is set to play at Salter Oval for Round 22 against the Dolphins.
Picture: Canterbury-Bankstown Bulldogs

"There's something about those suburban grounds that just hits different, and I think it's a great week to be a part of - I'm just excited for the boys to be a part of it this year," he said.

"We're all looking forward to coming up."

This match will be the first time they've faced the Dolphins, but King said there's some familiar faces that it would be good to have some banter and rivalry with.

He said it would be great to see a "massive" game against the Dolphins at Salter Oval.

King said the focus with every game this year had been putting their best foot forward individually and as a team.

While not wanting to think too far ahead during preparations for their Round 21 game, King said he always aimed to play his best for the club, the fans and the team every game.

Not only fulfilling the Bulldogs' lock position, King is also part of their senior leadership group.

He said this role had been "really good" in terms of growth for him this year.

DEMPSEY WELCOMES BULLDOGS HOME

After the great success of the region's first NRL game played for premiership points last year I'm looking forward to welcoming the Bundaberg Bulldogs back in 2023!

They may hail from Canterbury-Bankstown but they've made a three-year commitment to our region to make Salter Oval their kennel away from home.

Council is pleased to be one of the sponsoring partners bringing these NRL games to the Bundaberg Region.

It's a huge boost for the region from an economic perspective but it's also a wonderful opportunity for local families and sportspeople to experience first-class competition without the added cost of travel.

This is a Bulldogs home game and, through their commitment to our region, they'll spend it on the road.

Outside of the game, they've committed to creating development opportunities and pathways for our region's sportspeople.

Last year we saw the team visit schools, local businesses and promote the game of rugby league in Bundaberg, while the match itself saw great economic benefits for the entire Bundaberg Region.

So while they're here let's don the blue and white and make them feel at home.

- Mayor Jack Dempsey

Bundaberg Regional Council Mayor Jack Dempsey is looking forward to the Bulldogs' match against the Dolphins at Salter Oval.

PHINS' FINALS FOCUS TO START WITH BUNDY WIN

By Mikayla Haupt

The upcoming NRL clash at Salter Oval will not only see the Bulldogs return home but also Bundy's own Felise Kaufusi.

Kaufusi said it has been a "once-in-a-lifetime opportunity" to be able to be part of a new NRL team's first year and he was so proud to be known as the Dolphins' first signing.

"I think we have performed above anyone's expectations at the start of the year and have been able to achieve the one goal we had - to make all Dolphins' members and fans

Felise Kaufusi is proud to be known as the Dolphins' first signing. Picture: Contributed proud of the team they support," he said.

Kaufusi said it was going to be a "great experience" to be able to play in a Dolphins' jersey in front of all of his family and friends.

He said while it was a Bulldogs' home game, he expects the red and gold of the Dolphins fans would be dominant colours in the upcoming match at Salter Oval.

"Bundaberg was a great town to grow up in and I will never forget the part that it has played in me getting to the point where I could have a career in the NRL," Kaufusi said.

He said this was a really important game for the Dolphins as they chase a spot in the finals.

"When you consider what some of the experts thought about how many games we would win this year, we have done really well to still be in finals contention so late in the season," he said.

"But we have to start winning games now if we want to make the finals, and that starts with our match against the Bulldogs in Bundaberg."

Round 22 will kick off at Salter Oval from 2pm on Sunday 30 July.

WELCOME TO BUNDABERG!

A warm welcome to the players, coaches and supporters of the Dolphins and Canterbury-Bankstown Bulldogs.

It's fantastic Bundaberg is hosting this Round 22 clash – I'm sure everyone is looking forward to a great game of footy!

We need to see more top level games of footy being played in the regions and giving our local players a chance to dream big.

If you're a visitor to the Bundaberg region, I encourage you to get out and about: you could explore the seaside towns of Bargara, Burnett Heads, Elliott Heads - only a short drive from the CBD, or head down to Woodgate or Childers.

You could visit any one of the tourism spots that the Bundaberg region is renowned for or make the most of the friendly hospitality at our local cafes and restaurants.

To the teams: enjoy your time in the Bundaberg region and Phins up!

'ONCE IN A LIFETIME' CURTAIN RAISER

By Mikayla Haupt

Before the Bulldogs and Dolphins go head-to-head in Round 22 of the NRL at Salter Oval, Walk With Me 4 Autism All Abilities Rugby League players will take the field for the curtain raiser, and they are "pumped".

All Abilities president/co-founder Sonya Olsen said the players were counting down until the Bulldogs Game Day.

"Thanks to Rotary, ATW and Stormers the players will be presented with unique Game Day Shirts following their All Abilities games," she said.

"Playing before an NRL game in our local region is a once in a lifetime opportunity for our players and families," she said.

The NRL curtain-raiser will mark the third week of the All Abilities' season.

"All Abilities is a modified rugby league program giving children and young adults with special needs the chance to play a team sport alongside their peers in a fun, supportive and inclusive environment," Olsen said.

"All Abilities is for all children and young adults.

"You do not have to have a disability to participate in our program."

She said adding an Over 15+ age group to their program this year has attracted a number of keen footy fans who have never had the chance to play the great game they love until they created their program.

Olsen said registrations hit close to 80 before the season kicked off.

"Our program is primarily about having fun but also about fostering friendships along the way," she said.

"Friendships which could last a lifetime because that is what rugby league gives you."

Mentors are a major component to their program, providing help to players who may need additional assistance before, during or after games.

"Having mentors allows special needs parents/carers the chance to step back and become spectators on the side-line and for many this is their first experience," she said.

"Our program not only caters to the participants, we are looking after the family unit too.

"The Walk With Me 4 Autism Committee that runs the All Abilities Rugby League Program work together as a team to make the impossible possible."

SUPPORT FOR COMMUNITY AT BULLDOGS' HEART

By Mikayla Haupt

For the Canterbury-Bankstown Bulldogs supporting the local community starts before kick off and goes far beyond the full time whistle.

From donations to RACQ LifeFlight, supporting Walk With Me 4 Autism All Abilities Rugby League and even local musicians with the Bundaberg Next Level competition, the Bulldogs are certainly giving back to their Bundy home.

Bulldogs CEO Aaron Warburton said they were a community club.

"It's one of our main drivers and engaging with the local community has always been at the heart of everything we do at the Bulldogs," he said.

Warburton said last year they partnered with the RACQ

LifeFlight to donate $1 from every ticket sold.

This commitment allowed them to raise and purchase more than $8,500 worth of critical and lifesaving equipment for the LifeFlight Rescue teams.

They have once again pledged their support to this essential service and will be donating $1 from every ticket sold to this year's match at Salter Oval on Sunday, July 30.

"Beyond that, we are extremely pleased to connect and work with All Abilities again in 2023," he said.

"We believe rugby league is a game to be enjoyed by all and we are offering our All Abilities partners the opportunity to play as our curtain raiser for the match on Sunday."

GRASSROOTS LEAGUE 1000 STRONG

By Mikayla Haupt

There has been no shortage of youngsters taking to the rugby league field in Bundaberg.

Bundaberg Junior Rugby League president Wayne Bender said this season had been going well with more than 1000 juniors playing rugby league.

And they hope to see even more kids lace up their boots next season.

"We've got really, really strong numbers this year and we've gone over the thousand mark, so it's great," he said.

"We've been working for a few years to get over a thousand people there so, it may be up around 1200 people playing the game now and probably more if we put all the volunteers of each club in there."

Playing from U6 to U16, Bender said there were teams from across the region taking the field.

"Rugby league in general around here seems to be growing, we seem to have a very strong senior competition and we've got a very strong junior competition," Bender said.

"League overall in town is going along alright, needs work on it, we need to get more playing it."

He said the Bundaberg Junior Rugby League's practically got to set a new benchmark now that they've got 1000 players, next year they want 1500 players signed up.

Bender said he has a "really good" committee around him, who all get on well and liked to see kids playing football.

He said the exposure of an NRL game in the region was good for the league.

Bender said there were probably a lot of young girls and boys, who don't play rugby league who might go to that particular game and decide 'I want to play football'.

It was Bender's parents who influenced his passion for rugby league.

"I wasn't from Bundy then and my parents used to drive us 40km each way to go to football," he said.

Bender said his mum and dad always said they had to have the opportunity to go and play football, so they would load the car up and take the young footballers to town to play.

"I think that's rubbed off on me, I love the game, I love seeing kids play it," he said.

"I love coming here on a Sunday and going over and watching the little ones.

"They don't play for sheep stations, they're just there to have fun and it's really, really good."

For Bender seeing juniors playing rugby league was proof that their hard work was paying off.

More than halfway through the 2023 season, after the NRL game Bender said they would be approaching the semi finals.

DEVELOPING MORE THAN THE GAME

By Mikayla Haupt

Working with schools and clubs, Dolphins game development manager Shane Morris and his team are developing players on and off the field in Bundaberg, Brisbane, Central Queensland and just about everywhere in between.

Looking to build good, solid networks in the regions, Morris said they wanted to support local players, volunteers, provide education for coaches and encourage kids to be active and healthy.

He said both himself and Danny Blair had been to every junior club in Bundaberg.

As part of their work and commitment to grassroots and community engagement, Morris said they have visited more than 189 junior clubs, 219 schools between Brisbane and Rockhampton, and have had thousands of participants attend gala days.

The Dolphins have held 56 community events with their next one set to be in Bundaberg on Saturday 29 July, which kicks off with a sold out junior skills clinic for 6-12 year-olds, followed by a photograph and autograph opportunity for all fans. The junior skills clinic starts at 4pm, while the fan session will run from 5pm.
